

Retail vacancies in the Daily Mail

Career Mail, published exclusively every Thursday in the Daily Mail, is your one stop shop for your next retail post. Career Mail publishes an array of advertisements, from small independent retailers to national outlets, including Marks & Spencer, B & Q and Boots.

Trading Manager
 An exciting opportunity to lead in every area. At B&Q, we know it takes a team to be the best place anyone thinks of when they think of home improvement, and the only place they need to go. Being B&Q's largest home improvement retailer, we're already some of the way there. But we know that together we can go further. Which is why we're expanding our range, investing in our people, and transforming our stores.

As a Trading Manager you'll use your 'next level' skills within the store, working with the Finance and Stock managers to ensure your trading, department culture – all in terms of service and product. A career with B&Q offers you the opportunity to lead your team, manage a business, oversee a wide range of processes and implement change, meeting and engaging your team in the great things.

If you're a self-starter with a proven track record and a proven track record, you'll be a great fit for this role. You'll get an excellent base salary, bonus and benefits package including a guaranteed 5% annual bonus, and great career progression opportunities.

B&Q is the UK's leading home improvement retailer and the only one with over 1000 stores across the UK.

Let's do it B&Q

Daily Mail FEMAIL MAGAZINE

It may not be your fault, Wills, but these cynical PR stunts are a betrayal of our fighting forces
 AMANDA PLATELL

Local authorities using anti-terror powers to secretly monitor residents' routine calls and e-mails

THE COUNCIL PHONE SPIES

McCanns' first holiday since Maddie vanished

McCann and Gerry McCann are planning a family break - but not in Portugal

Career Mail
 Sell yourself to the High Street

Put yourself in our place

Stud. Status. Success.

It's all yours for the taking.

Building People Building Britain

CCP Wickes

YOUR M&S

The Daily Mail is one of the most popular newspapers in the UK and has an avid following by those working within the retail industry. This is because the Daily Mail delivers the hottest retail vacancies, in addition to helpful advice to ensure you find and secure your perfect job. Despite the Daily Mail being a national newspaper, recruiters are able to target jobs in specific areas, ensuring when you pick up your copy of the Daily Mail, you will be able to view vacancies specifically in your area.

The next exclusive features, which will include top tips on ensuring you propel yourself into a new and exciting job within your chosen industry, will be published on:

Sales on Thursday 18th September
 Retail on Thursday 25th September

For further enquiries, please call
 Kate at the Daily Mail on 020 7938 7675

Daily Mail
Career Mail
 Every Thursday in Daily Mail Classified
 Classified
www.dailymailclassified.co.uk

So don't forget to pick up your copy of Thursday's Daily Mail for the best career opportunities around!